

76TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LIBERATION

PROGRAMME
APRIL 29 – MAY 2, 2021

The first celebration of liberation, on May 1, 1945

FOREWORD

This year the ceremony commemorating the 76th anniversary of the liberation of the Dachau concentration camp will once again be held as a wholly virtual event due to the continuing Covid-19 pandemic. The Dachau Concentration Camp Memorial Site, the Stiftung Bayerische Gedenkstätten and the Comité International de Dachau invite all guests and interested parties to visit the Memorial Site website at <https://www.kz-gedenkstaette-dachau.de/liberation> from April 29 to May 2, 2021, and join an extensive programme of digital events in a variety of formats. The content of these online events will also be made available online.

We had been looking forward to welcoming many survivors and liberators and their families to the Dachau Concentration Camp Memorial Site, and deeply regret that this year's events must again take place without the many personal encounters and conversations. However, the wealth of support we received from contemporary witnesses and their descendants has enabled us to create a diverse and varied programme for the digital commemoration.

Events will begin on April 29 with a silent remembrance ceremony and wreath-laying at the International Memorial at the Dachau Concentration Camp Memorial Site. The ceremony will be held as a small gathering without public presence. It will be followed by the "Workshop of Memory", an extensive programme of digital events. While the historical focus of the programme is directed at various levels at the event of liberation itself and the personal stories of the former inmates, it also addresses the future and explores the form that commemoration may take in years to come. We hope that the personal stories and messages from numerous survivors and liberators will create a place for encounter and exchange in the virtual space. A further important area of focus is on the descendants of the survivors, who contribute personal video messages. In addition, the family of Max Mannheimer has agreed to take part in a live interview.

On May 2, a central commemorative event will take place as an official act of remembrance of the victims of the Dachau concentration camp and the liberation of survivors by the US Army on April 29, 1945.

Our warmest thanks go to everyone supporting and involved in this work for their contributions, their dedication and their efforts. We very much hope to see you again in person next year.

Warm regards, and stay healthy

INTERVIEW WITH CONTEMPORARY WITNESSES

SURVIVORS’ STORIES: PETER GARDOSCH

Peter Gardosch, born in 1930, was transported from Auschwitz concentration and extermination camp to the Kaufering-III camp in June 1944. Kaufering-III was a subcamp of the Dachau concentration camp, part of an extensive complex of subcamps at Kaufering. He was liberated by US troops on April 29, 1945. In this recording from March 2021, he recounts his personal experiences and memories.

MEMORY AND FAMILY REMEMBRANCE: THE FAMILY OF MAX MANNHEIMER

The next generation of memory: Eva and Judith Faessler, daughter and granddaughter of Dachau survivor Max Mannheimer, talk to Dr. Gabriele Hammermann, Director of Dachau Concentration Camp Memorial Site.

76 years after the liberation of the Dachau concentration camp, there are only a few contemporary witnesses to provide first-hand accounts of events at the time. But the second and third generations have long taken up their role in preserving memory and actively furthering the work of commemoration. The consequences of concentration camp internment for the survivors' families are examined here.
